

Halloween Party Games for Adults

Choose one playful activity that fits the room; costumes and spooky props are always optional.

Host guide / Letter / Friends & adult social / Choose 1–3 games, 5–15 minutes each

Read the guide privately first if this activity has hidden answers. Print single-sided at Actual size / 100%. Cut only sheets marked CARDS. Keep answer keys with the host.

What you need

- Paper and pens for several games
- Optional: timer, bowl, or household objects
- Optional: seasonal decorations already available

How to run it

1. Ask guests to choose from two or three activities and explain that watching or passing is fine.
2. Read the selected card's setup, materials, and end point before starting. Offer a seated version if an activity includes movement.
3. Use one volunteer host to keep time and clarify rules. Do not require costumes, props, food tasting, or spooky performance.
4. Stop at the planned time or when the group wants to return to conversation.

Pick a tone for the room

Halloween can be cozy, silly, mysterious, or theatrical. Ask which tone the group prefers before choosing a game. These ideas use familiar seasonal images but avoid gore, jump scares, and pressure to dress up. A person can take part by writing, guessing, or watching.

For a small table, choose a story, sketch, or clue game. For a larger room, try a team category round or short charades with a seated option. Keep each activity under 15 minutes so guests can join late.

- Costumes and decorations are optional.
- Use a fictional character or object rather than putting a guest on the spot.

Keep supplies simple

Most cards use scrap paper, a pen, a timer, or objects already in the room. If you do not have a prop, describe it or draw it instead. Do not require a guest to handle an object, taste food, or move around the room.

A host can print only the games selected for the evening. Put the chosen rules on a table and keep all materials optional. One clear instruction at a time is easier to follow than a long program.

- No alcohol or purchases are needed.
- Offer a quiet alternative to every performance activity.

Make the gathering welcoming

People may enjoy Halloween in different ways. Use seasonal imagery as a theme, not a test of who knows a movie, costume, or tradition. If a prompt does not fit the room, replace it without asking anyone to explain.

End with a light close such as choosing a favorite group idea. Do not score who was funniest or bravest. The goal is a shared activity that leaves the evening comfortable for everyone.

- No elimination, forced disclosure, or physical contact.
- A guest can stop or leave a game at any time.

Hosting questions

Do guests need costumes or Halloween trivia?

No. Costumes are optional, and none of the activities tests movie or holiday knowledge.

Are these games suitable without special props?

Yes. Most use paper, pens, or imagination; the host can substitute a drawing or verbal version.

Can someone watch instead of play?

Yes. Every game is optional, and the host should say so before starting.
